

- ~~D~~ Any member of the organization
17. Which of the following is the major purposes of employee development? ☒ X
- A. Establishes a sound relationship between the worker and his/her current job
 - B. Stimulate a more creative and innovative approach to problem solving & decision making
 - C. Minimizes operational errors
 - D. Enhances employee confidence and morale
18. Performance appraisal ~~cannot~~ be explained as;
- A. a formal system of periodic review and evaluation of an individual's job performance
 - B. a function provides feedback to employees that will improve their performance
 - C. a function that enable management in career planning, promotion and placement decisions
 - D. something paid to employees in the form of salaries, bonuses, and commission - Carper
19. Which of the following is not the aim of compensation system to an organization?
- A. To attract qualified employees required
 - B. To retain and motivate the existing workforce toward its goal achievement
 - C. To form unionized employees to protect rights of workers
 - D. Comply the legal requirements set by government
20. Identify the wrong statement regarding HRM environment
- A. The boundary that separates the organization from the external environment is clear
 - B. HR managers should be aware that rapid changes are occurring within the environment
 - C. Today, employees have more social concerns than economic interests than early times
 - D. Internal environments are under the control of management whereas external environment is beyond control of management
21. Which of the following is not the element of job specification?
- A. Primary Responsibilities
 - B. Qualification
 - C. Past experience in similar work
 - D. Skill & knowledge required
22. ----- is the systematic assembly of all the facts about a job.
- A. Workforce planning
 - B. Job description
 - C. Job analysis
 - D. Job specifications
23. IDENTIFY the one which is chronologically earliest to happen.
- A. Employment requisition
 - B. Vacancy announcement
 - C. HR Plan
 - D. Orientation